Stop the Talking in Shul!

Places where speaking is not tolerated, out of "RESPECT":

- Library- We wouldn't tell a librarian to "mind your own business" and "change your seat if you don't like my talking"...We understand that you can't talk, and all people "respect" that rule.
- Courtroom- Speak out of turn or disrespectfully in front of a judge, and a court officer will introduce you to a prison cell. We understand that it is forbidden to speak, out of "respect" for the JUDGE...
- Presidential Speech- Have you ever listened to one? You could hear a pin drop, and everyone in that room has something to say...yet out of sheer "respect" for the PRESIDENT, they remain quiet...
- Church- Speak during services, and the preacher will stop the sermon, the talker will earn the wrath of ALL the other congregants attending for talking. Out of Sheer "respect" for the PRIEST, they remain quiet...

What about the ultimate President and Judge, HASHEM? What about the ultimate courtroom and library, our SHULS? Do we show the proper "RESPECT"??
